BEST INVESTIGATIVE REPORTING—Former Sea Coast Echo reporter Wayne DeCumb Jr., 34, of Bay St. Louis, received a first place award for best investigative reporting from the Associated Press Association President Jack Bouchillon, general manager of The Ocean Star. The citation was presented at a recent 1984 Better Newspaper Contest awards breakfast at the Ritz Hilton Hotel in conjunction with the AP's annual meeting there. DeCumb's winning entry dealt with problems encountered by the county in its efforts to develop a commercial fishing harbor at the mouth of Bayou Calet. DeCumb has written several stories in The Sea Coast Echo providing "good through coverage" of a subject evidently important to the town's economy. DeCumb now works with the Pan Am Corporation division which provides public relations services for National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County.

From Mississippi River to Mississippi Sound

Water diversion plan includes Hancock recreational facility

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Development of two local recreational facilities are included in a freshwater diversion feasibility study report currently being reviewed by the Mississippi River Commission in Vicksburg.

The two-acre facilities would be located on the Jordan River in the Cedar Point area and at the mouth of the Wolf River.

The feasibility study was initiated by resolution of the U.S. House of Representatives Committee on Public Works and Transportation in 1976.

According to Col. Robert C. Lee, district engineer for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, New Orleans District, the study has been completed and written comments on the report will be accepted by the Mississippi River Commission until July 9.

The purpose of the study, Lee said, was to investigate the feasibility of introducing fresh water into the Lake Pontchartrain, Basin and western Mississippi Sound to improve the habitat and fish and wildlife productivity.

Other measures were also identified and evaluated to determine their effectiveness, including regulating alteration of wetlands, filling subsiding areas, establishing wildlife sanctuaries, managing fish and wildlife and installing saltwater barriers.

According to the Corps findings, freshwater diversion is the best way to establish favorable habitat conditions for fish and wildlife productivity.

The report recommends the federal government participate in construction of freshwater diversion facilities adjacent to the Bonnet Carré Spillway in Louisiana.

The diversion facilities would be located in St. Charles Parish, La., about 33 miles upriver of New Orleans on the left descending bank of the Mississippi River.

Diversion facilities and associated works include:

—A 455-foot multi-cell box culvert control structure with four 20-by-20-foot gated cells in a Mississippi River levee setback.

—An inflow channel 950 feet long with a bottom width of 400 feet, side slopes of one vertical and three horizontal and water depth of 25 feet.

—An outflow channel 33,000 feet long with a bottom width of 400 feet, side slopes of one vertical and three horizontal and a depth of 25 feet in most of the outflow channel.

For the last 1,360 feet of the channel near Lake Pontchartrain, the channel bottom width would be increased to 500 feet and then to 700 feet. Over that same distance, the channel depth would be decreased to ten feet and then to two feet.

—A sediment trap about 3,500 feet downstream of the diversion structure in the outflow channel.

—A 400-foot access bridge across the outflow channel to the lake side of the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad tracks to give sandhaulers access in and out of the facility.

—Relocation of the upper railway guideway adjacent to the control structure for 3,000 feet.

—Relocation of the Mississippi River levee over the control structure for 1,360 feet.

Falkenbush, project manager for the Corps of Engineers, said yesterday the diversion would provide an overall benefit to fish and wildlife by adding 100,000 acres of habitat.

DeCumb's report, "An Assessment of the Feasibility of Freshwater Diversion into the Lake Pontchartrain Basin and Western Mississippi Sound," was prepared by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, New Orleans District, and the Mississippi River Commission.

and sport fisheries and wildlife industries and related support industries would increase.

"The diversion of fresh water would reduce the saltwater intrusion that kills marsh vegetation and creates open water," the report continues.

"Sediments and nutrients in the diverted water would enhance growth of vegetation and revitalize some areas of marsh and reduce land loss."

According to the report, about 10,500 acres of marsh and wooded swamp would be saved over the 50-year project life.

The first cost of the plan is estimated at $57,814,000.

Annual charges of $5,963,000, based on an interest rate of 8-1/8 percent and a 50-year amortization period, include operation and maintenance expenditures of $622,000.

Average annual benefits attributable to the plan are estimated by Corps officials at $7,178,000, with a benefit-cost ratio of 1.20 to 1.

Public meetings on the project held in New Orleans and Gulfport were well attended, Corps officials said.

"Nobody argues it's not a good project for the environment," Assistant Public Affairs Officer Janice Mosier said.

According to Mosier, comments at the New Orleans meeting were favorable except for shrimpers concerned about salinity changes where fresh water first flows into Lake Pontchartrain.

"Overall, most people supported the project," he said.

In addition to proposed recreational facilities at Cedar Point and Wolf River, the report recommends facilities at the lake end of the borrow channel within the Houma and at Frenier Beach, Point Aux Herbes and the Rigolets in Louisiana.

The recreational facilities, Hull said, would include two-lane boat ramps, courtesy piers, picnic tables and parking for 30 vehicles.

"If we're going to be increasing fish and wildlife productivity," he said, "we feel some access to the resources should be provided."

According to Hull, the facilities would be funded 50-50 by federal and state agencies, with no direct costs to Hancock County.

"We have identified the general areas where we feel the facilities should be," he said.

"The specific sites would be established during the design phase of the project, in consultation with Hancock County officials."

Hull said Corps officials met with the Hancock County Board of Supervisors last fall to present the plan.

"They generally supported the idea," he said.

If the report receives a favorable review in Vicksburg, Mosier said, it will be forwarded to Washington, D.C. for successive review by the Office of the Corps of Engineers Chief of Engineers, the Secretary of the Army, the Office of Management and Budget and the U.S. Congress.

If Congress approves the plan, it will be sent back to New Orleans for the design phase, she said.

"We estimate construction work could begin in 1987."

Hancock board to vote school budget June 30

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

An approximate $4 million Hancock County School District 1984-85 budget will contain an estimated $36,000 deficit of expenditures over income, Superintendent Terrell Randolph said Tuesday.

But carryover funds will cover some of that deficit, he told school trustees. And the budget deficit has been decreased from $250,000 two years ago due to budget cutbacks during the last two years and an increase in ad valorem taxes, he noted.

Randolph presented a preliminary report of proposed 1984-85 revenues and expenditures to the board.

A final proposal will be submitted to board members later this week, and the board will meet at 9 a.m. Saturday, June 30, to approve next year's budget.

Randolph said the district should receive some $140,000 more in revenues in 1984-85.

"We're blessed with the fact we've had a lot of construction going on in Hancock County," Randolph quoted Hancock County Assessor/Tax Collector Edward Murtagh as estimating that about $1.3 million would be added to the tax rolls next fiscal year from new construction since January.

Randolph said he believes the assessment will increase again next year.

Included in the preliminary budget presentation is funding for classroom trailers at Gulfview Elementary School and Hancock North Central and for new telephone equipment at Hancock North Central which Randolph said will ultimately cut monthly telephone costs for long-distance calls.

Randolph said the budget for elementary school supplies has been increased from $8,000 to $7,000 for the 1984-85 school year.

Last year's supply, he said, included paper for student use.

This year, he said, paper costs will be paid from principals' office supplies budgets.

In another matter Tuesday the trustees voted to drop a program for pre-school handicapped at Clermont Harbor.

The formerly federally-funded program operated last year at a cost of about $26,000, Randolph said, with no reimbursement from state or federal funds.

The program served about six severely-handicapped children, he said, including several from the Bay St. Louis-Separate Municipal School District.

The youngsters will be able to attend classes for multiply-handicapped next year in city or county schools if they are of school age, he added.

Randolph said two regular classrooms of fifth graders—about 100 students—will also be moved back to Gulfview Elementary School from Clermont Harbor next year.

"Not only did this keep about $5,000 to $4,000 in transportation, it divided the principal's time between the Clermont Harbor and Gulfview campuses."

"And important classroom instructional time was lost because the students had to be transported from Gulfview to Clermont Harbor in the morning, back and forth from Gulfview for lunch and back again in the afternoon to catch the school buses."

Also Tuesday, the trustees again tabled the Area rally draws large attendance

Some 250 residents attended a Community Pro-Life Rally Tuesday at Bay High's Tiger Stadium in Bay St. Louis.

James Glin acted as master of ceremonies for the rally. Speakers included Lee Delcuzze, Rev. Nathan Barber, pastor, First Baptist Church; Rev. Ernie Cullley, pastor, Word of Faith Church; Susan Dane, medical technician; and Dr. A.K. Martinovich Jr., MD.

The rally included several patriotic songs and solos with speakers urging those in attendance to work through prayer and religious commitment to change the laws allowing abortion in the U.S.

House body okays $2 million at NSTL

Military construction projects in Hancock County are slated to receive nearly $2 million of $46.2 million planned for installations in the Fifth Congressional District.

Legislation authorizing funds for various construction projects at military installations in the district was approved Tuesday by the House Rules Committee.

Congressman Trent Lott said the funding is part of a $9.27 billion measure which the full House will take up this week to provide military construction authorization and related authority in support of the nation's military departments during the 1985 fiscal year.

A total of $157 million is provided in the bill for construction of a data processing center addition at the Naval Oceanographic Office in Hancock County, Lott said.

The Naval Oceanographic Command, also located at NSTL, would receive $375,000 for construction of an administrative office, he said.

The Rules Committee on which Lott serves approved $20.6 million of the $46.2 million Fifth District total for projects at the Naval Construction Battalion in Gulfport.

These projects include a Seabee Regimental and Battalion headquarters, Seabee training building, war reserves warehouse, medical clinic addition, unaccompanied enlisted personnel housing, an enlisted dining facility addition, gymnasium and water storage tank.

The bill provides $13.5 million for projects at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi.

Lott said these projects include a multi-purpose aircraft maintenance shop, air-conditioning, the medical facility kitchen and altering the unaccompanied enlisted personnel housing.

Lott said $9.1 million was authorized by the committee to rehabilitate buildings at Camp Shelby Army National Guard Camp near Hattiesburg, plus $941,000 to fund land acquisition at the camp.

The Air National Guard Center in Gulfport is authorized in the bill to receive $900,000 for construction of a munitions maintenance and storage facility, Lott said.

Use of Fair train higher than expected

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Use of the Gulf Coast Limited is "much higher than expected," an Amtrak railroad official reported yesterday.

According to Amtrak's New Orleans District Manager Gene Price, about 100 passengers a day are riding the train, many people as far as New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Mobile and New Orleans, he said.

Price said, "Last Saturday, the Pascagoula Day Camp train's Mississippi Pavilion was the route's biggest day, with 1,000 passengers."

Price said officials now are looking at the train's passenger potential. "We're looking at the train's potential as a local train because they get out of the local area and from the Union

'Operation Wake-Up' nets another arrest

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A Lakeshore resident turned himself in at the Hancock County sheriff's office on Wednesday morning in connection with last week's 'Operation Wake-Up.'

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson said David Darrell Hudson, 21, P.O. Box 223, Lakeshore, Miss. turned himself in at the sheriff's office Wednesday morning.

A warrant had been issued for his arrest for the alleged sale of marijuana, the sheriff stated.

Warrants for 43 persons alleging some 73 charges were issued by four law enforcement agencies conducting the drug bust operation last week.

Some 38 persons were arrested for 'Operation Wake-Up' involving alleged drug sales with a 39th being apprehended on the first day and charged with the alleged growing and cultivating marijuana.

The investigation began Feb. 1, when two undercover agents from St. Tammany Parish, La., came into the area at Peterson's request and began buying drugs off the street or in bars and lounges. Mostly marijuana was involved, although the officers purchased some cocaine and valium, they said.

Hudson's bond was set at $2,500, Peterson said.

Peterson reported three more persons who are out of state are considered at large, but should be apprehended soon.

'Operation Wake-Up' included the Hancock County sheriff's office, St. Tammany sheriff's office, Waveland and Bay St. Louis police departments, and members of the Mississippi Highway Patrol criminal investigation.

In other police matters, Delbert Seay, Hancock County sheriff's investigator reports the arrest of a Diamondhead resident in connection with a burglary at that community's yacht club.

Seay said, "We had a warrant for James Hoffman, 18, 8815-A Golf Drive, Diamondhead in connection with a June 7 burglary of a variety of meats and seafood from the yacht club."

Hoffman, who had reportedly been in the state of Alabama, turned himself in at the sheriff's office on Tuesday, and is charged with burglary," Seay stated.

Senate committee names Gene Taylor secretary

The members of a special Mississippi Senate study committee on flooding in the Pearl River Basin agreed to look at every possible alternative to alleviate the problem.

The 18-member committee was established by a Senate resolution and is composed of all Senators whose district is in the Pearl River Basin.

At the organizational meeting Tuesday, Senator Tommy Brooks of Carthage was elected chairman, Senator Rob Smith of Rankin County was chosen vice chairman, and Senator Gene Taylor of Bay St. Louis was elected secretary.

"This is one of the most important committees created in a number of years because it will affect a tremendous number of people in Central and South Mississippi," Brooks said.

"I hope that we will be able to compile the vast amount of information available and come up with recommendations that will benefit everyone," he said.

Brooks, president Pro Tempore of the Senate, noted that the Senate first passed a resolution asking for a joint Senate-House study committee.

However, the House did not pass the resolution but has since created its own committee. Rep. Ted Lambert of Monticello, Miss. announced that the House members would lend unquestionable cooperation to the Senate committee. The Senate committee agreed to invite the House to attend its hearings.

Brooks will divide the Senate committee into sub-committees to study various aspects of the flood control problem. The next meeting of the full committee will be in July.

Other members of the committee are Senators Con Maloney, Doug Anderson, Cy Rosenblatt and Henry Kirksey of Jackson, Wayne Burkes of Bolton, Jay Dismore of Hazlehurst, W. L. Rayburn of Brookhaven, W. C. Manning of Philadelphia, John Powell of Liberty, Emerson Stringer of Columbia, Mitch Childre of Pearl, Alan Heflin of Forest, Ronnie Shows of Bassfield and Bob Montgomery of Canton.

Waveland nonagenarian explains her longevity

By DENA BISNETTE
Rosie Singleton Anthony of Waveland believes hard work, prayer and a simple lifestyle are the secrets to having a long life.

Mrs. Anthony feels she is qualified to offer advice on longevity because she is 93 and in good health.

"Mother's only problems are a little arthritis and she's deaf in one ear, but she gets around better than most younger people," said her 71-year-old daughter Ordean S. Richardson. "She can move around better than I can."

"She's very proud of her age and she's glad to tell people how old she is," Mrs. Richardson said.

"But she doesn't like birthday parties—I feel like she'll make it to 100 and maybe she'll let us celebrate that."

Mrs. Anthony graciously declined to say when she will be 94.

Mrs. Anthony, however, doesn't talk about the future. "She never talks about the end of her life. She just thinks about now. Maybe that's how she's lived so long," Mrs. Richardson said.

"I feel good mornings and nights," Mrs. Anthony said, "and when I get up in the morning I just thank the good Lord for another sunny day."

Mrs. Anthony was born in 1891 and has survived four of her seven children, including the late Otis Singleton of Waveland. "It's good to have children," she said. "You never know what kind of fix you'll get in before you leave this world."

Until she was 65 she worked as a domestic and cared for children or people who were sick or elderly. Sometimes she traveled to New Orleans to assist the relatives of her employers.

When she was 65, she retired at the request of her family. "We had a hard time stopping her because she wasn't sick or anything. Even after that she kept working. She used to take in ironing and do it here at home," Mrs. Richardson explained.

Work has never stopped for Mrs. Anthony. She continues to do all the housework in her residence a block off Herlity Street, where she has lived for 45 years. She also grows a vegetable garden in her back yard each spring and refuses any assistance with the plowing, hoeing, weeding or harvesting.

"You've got to keep moving around. You can't let age take advantage of you," she says.

"I do all my little work around here. I do my own cooking and housework and I like to grow my little flowers."

"I don't have time to fool with senior citizens. My daughter goes, but I can't just sit all day," she added.

"I don't change how I live as I get older," Mrs. Anthony said. She continues to cook every day and rarely eats canned or frozen food, preferring the fresh vegetables from her garden. She also avoids frozen foods and uses no soft drinks, liquor, coffee or tea.

"I buy candy sometimes, but I give it to the children in this neighborhood. I like to make old-fashioned tea, cakes and popcorn candy for them," too. They're in and out of my house every day," she said.

Mrs. Richardson said her mother often thinks of other people, giving them her extra vegetables or assisting them in other ways.

"She finally switched from a wood-burning stove to a gas heater, but she's doing that for someone else too. My husband and I used to get wood for her, but we're not able to do it anymore so she bought the heater to make it easier on us."

Mrs. Anthony is also still an active member of Mount Chapel Baptist Church and occasionally speaks there.

When she has spare time, Mrs. Anthony fills it by doing needlework and crafts, which she enjoys displaying for visitors. "I stay happy making beautiful things," she explained.

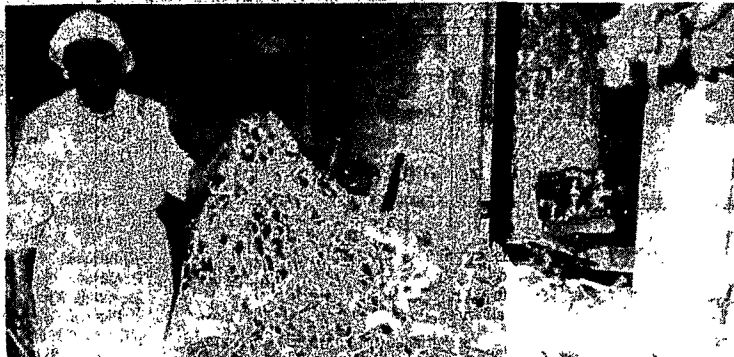

"Maybe that's how she's lived so long, staying happy and caring for others," her daughter said. "We're just both glad she's been able to do it."

ROSIE ANTHONY—At 93, Rosie Anthony continues her gardening and housework. Here she displays a bowl of beans she grew in her back yard.

HARVESTING—Rosie Anthony, 93, cuts a cabbage in her garden while her 71-year-old daughter Ordean Richardson watches. "She won't let me help with the garden," Mrs. Richardson said.

ARTWORK—Mrs. Anthony displays one of her more unusual craft projects, a bedspread created from the plastic rings used to hold cans and discarded ribbons. She said some of the local storekeepers gave her the materials she used.

The Bay St. Louis Rotary Club's 'Beachfront Rescue' drive is well underway, according to Mark Uram, president.

The Rotary Club is spearheading a drive to coordinate a land-based rescue along the beachfront.

The main objective is to supply police vehicles with such items as life vests, paddles, and life buoy rings, so they could be immediately available to assist swimmers and boaters in trouble.

We feel this is a very good project the Rotary Club is involved in as coordinator.

The club also plans on locating land based boats near the water along the beach which could be used during emergencies.

The club is trying to raise some $1,200 to purchase an initial supply of equipment for police vehicles.

As of Wednesday some $380 have been collected and we are hoping the $1200 goal will be reached. Persons interested in making a tax deductible donation can send it to: Rotary Club 'Beachfront Rescue,' P.O. Box 642, Bay St. Louis, Miss. 39520.

We are interested in the new study for the possibilities of developing a commercial fishermen's harbor at Bayou Cadet.

We are aware of the importance the seafood industry has meant to Hancock County for so many years.

There were numerous seafood plants along our beach for many years, and we can remember some of them and have been told about other locations.

We agree with State Senator Gene Taylor's comments about our county being behind the other two coastal counties in providing facilities for commercial fishermen.

So, who knows, it is possible the Hancock County Port and Harbor could find ways to develop such a project.

We received a telephone call from Clarice Gustin, executive director of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce late Wednesday reporting a change of location for the Super Flea Market scheduled for June 30 and July 1.

The Flea Market will be held in front of the chamber's office on US-90, Bay St. Louis next to Hille Chevrolet-Oldsmobile.

Originally it was scheduled to be held in the ABC parking lot, but Gustin reports a transportation problem developed with the number of items already on hand for the sale.

Power company establishes storm emergency information center

June 18, 1984
Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:

In the event a hurricane strikes southeast Mississippi, Mississippi Power Company will establish a storm information center at company headquarters in Gulfport for the entire 23 counties served by MPC in southeast Mississippi.

Information concerning damage and restoration efforts for the Meridian District, Laurel District, Hattiesburg District, Gulfport District, Biloxi/Ocean Springs District and Pascagoula/Moss Point District will be available only through the storm information center in Gulfport.

Updates will be prepared twice daily at 9:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. for the news media. On Saturdays and Sundays, information will be updated only once a day, at 3 p.m.

News releases will be prepared and mailed each Monday for the weekly newspapers in southeast Mississippi. Also, short features will be prepared as warranted during the restoration effort for all media.

In the event telephone service is disrupted, updates will be provided either through the wire services or by personal delivery of news releases.

These procedures have been developed to ensure that the general public is given the most timely and accurate information concerning electric power restoration in the event a hurricane strikes southeast Mississippi.

Sincerely,
John L. Hutchinson

Hancock Republicans request cash confiscated in drug raid go to sheriff's office

June 11, 1984
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor:

At the regular monthly meeting of the Hancock County Republican Party May 10, the subject of law enforcement in Hancock County was one topic of discussion.

The Republican Party, as you are aware, has adopted a strong position on strengthening our law enforcement agencies throughout the United States.

As a result, we, the Hancock County Republican Party, by unanimous vote adopted the attached proclamation.

We sincerely request that you publish this proclamation.

Very truly yours,
Hancock County
Republican Executive Committee
James Rester, chairman
PROCLAMATION
WHEREAS, the Hancock County

Sheriff's Department, in cooperation with State and Federal Agencies, seized a large shipment of contraband drugs, vehicles, guns, and approximately $236,700.00 in cash in a recent arrest in Pearlman, Mississippi; and

WHEREAS, the cash, guns and vehicles are subject to use or sale by the county agencies; Therefore,

The Hancock County Republican Party has unanimously adopted this proclamation requesting that the monies and equipment confiscated be given to the Sheriff's Department of Hancock County to be used in assisting law enforcement agencies throughout the county.

American independence led to need government

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article, entitled "American Independence Led To Constitutional Change," by William F. Swindler, John Marshall Professor of Law, Emeritus, at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, The College of William and Mary, is supplied to The Sea Coast Echo by Public Research Syndicated, Inc. of Claremont, Calif.

Theme: In the first year of peace after the Revolutionary War, Americans turned their attention to making more permanent governments.

When the delegates met in 1787 to draft a new Constitution for the United States, they had considerable experience in constitution-making on which to draw. During the war, most of the states had adopted constitutions to replace their old royal charters. Then experience suggested modifications were necessary, the members of the Revolutionary generation did not hesitate to adopt new constitutions that better suited the needs of good government.

By William W. Swindler

Two centuries ago this winter—in January, 1784—the Continental Congress ratified the Treaty of Paris, ending the American revolution. Now that the war was over, Americans faced the problem of devising more permanent forms of government. The 1780s and 90s saw a flurry of constitution-making, as former colonies exchanged their early constitutions for newer ones.

Several of the state constitutions as well as the Articles of Confederation had been expedient plans of government drafted in haste at the outbreak of the Revolution or in the critical period of the war. Flaws in these early charters began to show up soon after peace was won.

The first state to adopt a constitution was New Hampshire, early in 1776. In the late winter and early spring of 1784 New Hampshire prepared to enact a second charter, more detailed than the tentative wartime measure. South Carolina had adopted a second constitution in 1778 and would adopt a third in 1790. In that same year, Pennsylvania enacted its second constitution, while Georgia adopted its second in 1789 and a third in 1790. Delaware adopted a new constitution in 1792. As for 1784, there was a strong movement in Virginia to call for a second constitutional convention the following year, spearheaded by Thomas Jefferson.

Not only were the new American states learning to draft constitutions by trial and error, but most public leaders assumed that such frames of government were intended to change with the times and were entirely in keeping with the political practice, therefore, for na-

TAX FREEDOM DAY

American taxpayers just passed "Tax Freedom Day" a few weeks ago, and the day was hardly noticed.

"Tax Freedom Day," which came on May 1, was the day proclaimed by the National Tax Foundation as the day we completed our work for government this year.

For the first four months of the year, the Foundation said, Americans worked to pay their taxes. The point is, we worked one-third of the year this year to pay for government.

While we all prefer to pay less taxes, and while most of us complain at the level of taxes we are paying, there is another way of looking at our tax bill. There is a positive side to Tax Freedom Day.

For those taxes paid, our schools are open, our highways are being patrolled, law enforcement officers have been at work—and the crime rate has gone down, government-owned hospitals have been open, foods have been inspected, our military forces have been on guard around the world, and those unable to care for themselves have received assistance with food, clothing, housing, and medical care.

So, while we are complaining, it's good to look at the benefits received from the tax dollars we pay.

Seems to make it all more worthwhile, doesn't it?

tional leaders to look for improvements upon the Articles of Confederation.

Not all the former colonies welcomed the idea of a new constitution. Two of the original royal provinces—Connecticut and Rhode Island—elected to continue into the new nation under their English charters. Connecticut did not adopt a constitution, in fact, until 1818, and Rhode Island held out until 1849. Even then, a bloodless "war" known as "Dorr's Rebellion" broke out between the factions supporting one of two proposed Rhode Island charters. Eventually the United States Supreme Court was brought into the struggle, although it ruled that a state constitution was a "political question" not within its cognizance.

Besides the disposition of a number of states to adopt new documents better suited to the new nation, there were also several movements to create new states altogether. The Treaty of Paris had recognized the United States as an area extending from the original seaboard settlements to the Mississippi River, and most of these "western lands" had been ceded by the original colonies to the Continental Congress as a condition for adoption of the Articles of Confederation. Now the settlers in these frontier areas were beginning to advocate their admission to the new Union as separate states.

Some of these movements for statehood had begun during the Revolution. Towns in the Green Mountain area, eventually to become Vermont, drafted their first proposal for a constitution in 1777, although it would be almost 15 years before this state was finally recognized. The area was known as the "Hampshire grants," and was claimed jointly by New Hampshire and New York—claims vigorously resisted by the local towns, who threatened to shoot any tax collector from either state.

A second abortive attempt at statehood took place in the Transylvania region of western Pennsylvania and eastern Kentucky. This region went so far as to send a delegate to the Continental Congress, where he was unceremoniously rejected. Kentucky itself met with better treatment from its mother state of Virginia, which in 1775 authorized its "Kentucky District" to begin planning for separate statehood.

Virginia early in the revolutionary war had conquered the French settlements in Illinois and added this as a "country," but subsequently ceded Illinois with the other parts of the old Northwest territory to the Continental Congress. After a protracted struggle to work out a satisfactory plan for statehood, Kentucky finally became a state in 1792.

There was also the state of Franklin, a separatist government in western North Carolina which formally adopted a constitution and set up offices of government in 1783. Colonel John Sevier, "Nolichucky Jack," a revolutionary hero, was the first and only governor of the state. He subsequently became the first governor of its successor, the state of Tennessee.

The first years of peace in 1784, accordingly, were a year of reorganization and reformation in the new state governments. Because these governments seemed to contradict any political or economic principle, it was not until the late 1780s that the new governments began to take shape.

Gulfside hosts first annual youth institute

By DENA BISNETTE
About 90 young people, 13 counselors and six specialists are attending a youth institute at Gulfside Assembly in Waveland this week.

The institute is headed by Dean Dorothy Booker, wife of Gulfside Executive Director Warren G. Booker. Mrs. Booker said she came up with the idea after moving to Waveland from Cleveland, Ohio, last year.

"It was a big change when we came here, and my children couldn't find much to do that first summer. I felt like there should be more for the young people and thought about holding an institute here," she explained.

"I originally had a goal of having 40 here, but my goal has doubled. Some of these people have been here before for workshops, but most have never been away from home before," Mrs. Booker added.

Those attending the institute, which began Sunday and ends Friday, are mostly 18- to 21-years-old and come from Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and Ohio.

Each group brought at least one adult counselor or a specialist like a choir director. Several counselors brought their children, some as young as three years old, and the institute provides activities for them also.

Activities include worship services, Bible study, seminars, small group discussions, recreation and a talent show. Special events include a service of holy communion scheduled for tonight.

During the service, the institute participants will be given the opportunity to dedicate their lives to Christ and service to others in keeping with the institute's theme, "Proclaiming reclaiming and reactivating youth for service in the church and community."

"We try to make them feel good about themselves and help them learn to accept change and live with others," Mrs. Booker said.

Mrs. Booker said she and her husband feel this year's youth institute has been successful enough to make the activity an annual summer event.

Auderer, Randolph and Ladner represent area at rodeo

Hancock County, Bay St. Louis and Waveland will all be represented at the 36th annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo.

Bay St. Louis and Hancock County will be represented by beauty contestants Gina Marie Randolph and Karen E. Ladner, while Waveland will be represented by honorary rodeo president John F. Auderer.

Auderer, a New Orleans native, has been a resident of Waveland for 30 years and was 1980 recipient of the City of Waveland Honorary and Distinguished Citizens award.

He is president of J.F. Auderer Laboratory. He is also vice-president and special assistant to the chairman of the board of Auderer Dental Supplies.

Auderer founded the South Eastern Conference of Dental Laboratories in 1961 and was its first president. He is a member of the LSU School of Dentistry Technology Advisory Committee, past third district councilman for the National Association of Dental Laboratories, district chairman of the American Fund for Dental Health and 1980 recipient of the National Association of Dental Laboratories' George Mieur Award for outstanding contribution.

His civic service has included membership on the board of directors for Security Savings and Loan Co., which renovated the old Markam Hotel as part of Gulfport's downtown development; service as past chairman of the fair committee and past president of the Holy Name Society at St. Claire's Church; and honorary alumnus status and Side Line club membership at St. Stanislaus.

Auderer is also a member of the Century Club of Boy Scouts of America and a lifetime member of the Humane Society. He also annually presents the Ed Otte Memorial Award for outstanding service to a member of the Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo. Auderer is married to the former Marge Doclar of New Orleans. They have two children, Linda A. Kidd of Waveland and J.F. Auderer III of New Orleans.

On Saturday, June 23, Charles K. Eleuterius of Ocean Springs will present the second in a series of public seminars on the ocean.

The seminars are being sponsored by the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory to help celebrate the Year of the Ocean.

The one-hour presentation beginning at 11 a.m. in the J.L. Scott Marine Education Center in Biloxi will include a question-and-answer session.

The center will be open to visitors from 10:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. There is no charge.

Eleuterius has been head of the physical oceanography section at the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory since 1971. He joined the staff of the oceanography section at GCRL in 1965 and later headed the Laboratory's data processing section.

After obtaining his BS degree in mathematics from the University of Southern Mississippi in 1965 and an MS degree in statistics from Southern in 1969, he attended Texas A&M University and completed all course work toward a PhD degree in 1971.

He has participated in 24 oceanographic research studies and served as principal investigator for 20 of those. He has produced 37 reports and scientific papers regarding his research. He has also served as an advisor to various state, county, municipal and private agencies in regard to environmental matters.

The presentation on "How Deep is the Ocean?" will answer the questions: What is oceanography, why do we do it, and what is involved in doing it?

The seminar will cover specific oceanographic features and the validity of tales concerning the ocean.

Eleuterius' lecture, accompanied by a slide presentation, is planned for all ages from elementary school children to adults.

The Year of the Ocean observance is designed to awaken Americans' consciousness of their bond with the ocean and to kindle new interest in the exploration, research, development, use and enjoyment of the sea.

Officers pull marijuana from woods near landfill

Law enforcement officials in Hancock County weeded the woods near the Catahoula Sanitary Landfill of eight marijuana plants Tuesday.

Calls concerning the site of the marijuana plants were received by both the Bay St. Louis Police Department and the Hancock County Sheriff's Department.

According to Bay Police Investigator Murray Ladner, Bay police netted five plants four to five feet tall which were growing alongside the Old Kiln Road.

It appeared some 18 plants had already been removed, he said.

Sheriff Ronnie Peterson said a deputy removed three 7-foot-tall plants from an area near the landfill.

No arrests have been made in connection with the incidents, the officers said.

News Brief

BAD CHOICE

Wildlife experts believe Mount Allen, the site picked for the 1988 Winter Olympics downhill ski events in Calgary, Alberta, is a bad choice, says the National Wildlife Federation.

Biologists say that construction of the ski runs in the environmentally fragile area would drive off nearly 300 bighorn sheep, 200 elk and many other wildlife animals, leading to their starvation.

ETV Brief

HEARING IMPAIRMENT

Academy Award-winning actress Louise Fletcher hosts a special one-hour documentary about the world of the hearing impaired at noon Sunday, June 24, on Mississippi ETV.

Fletcher brings a special insight to her role in the program, "The Hurt That Does Not Show," from her life with her parents, both of whom were born deaf.

She points out that in American culture and other cultures throughout the world hearing loss is largely ignored or passively attended to. Because it is invisible and usually painless, it is often the "hurt" that does not show.

The program explores what happens to people when one of their vital sources of communication stops working.

Issues discussed include medical help, education and training, aid for the hearing impaired, dealing with change and ways to overcome a hearing handicap.

Council hears complaints on errant MarkeTown trash

By DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis City Council heard complaints about garbage Tuesday night from residents of the area near MarkeTown Shopping Center.

Burt and Donna Gibson, who live on the Dunbar Avenue side of MarkeTown, Newspapers are the number one advertising medium in the United States.

told the board that paper from the shopping center blows into their yard and the yards of their neighbors. Gibson asked if the city could do anything about the problem.

Gibson suggested that construction of a fence or hedgerow could help cut down on the amount of trash blowing over from the shopping center parking lot.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson were told that Councilman Gary Griffin has been working on the problem. However, he was absent from Tuesday's meeting.

Gibson was placed on the agenda for the next meeting, when Griffin is expected to be present to discuss the problem.

In other business, the council opened a bid on six heating units for a housing rehabilitation project and took them under advisement. The council also set 6:30 p.m. on July 3 as the time for a public hearing on a Community Development Block Grant and approved advertisement of that hearing.

The meeting was recessed until Thursday to allow council members who so wished to attend an anti-abortion rally at Tiger Stadium.

Extension Service offers variety of tips

Financial Mistakes
Getting control over money can be expedited by avoiding such common mistakes as failure to keep and organize records, failure to set goals, failure to maintain control of monthly cash flow, using credit for the wrong reasons, failure to save for a rainy day and failure to make your money work for you.

Lawyer Referral Service
If you do not have a lawyer and think you have a legal problem, you can call the Mississippi Bar Referral Service. Give a brief statement describing your problem and you will be directed to a lawyer who deals with that type of problem. The toll free number is 1-800-682-6423.

There is no charge for the referral, but the consumer is responsible for making the appointment and paying the bill.

Choosing a Summer Camp
The American Camping Association recommends that parents find out about a camp director's background, camp's program and goals, and the ratio of camp counselors to campers. At a camp for healthy teenagers, the recommended ratio is 1 to 10.

Traveling Abroad
If you are planning to drive during a trip abroad, check to find out if the countries in which you plan to drive recognize United States driver's licenses. Most of them will accept an international driver's license.

Make sure your medical and accident policies provide adequate protection. Leave your passport number and itinerary with family or friends. Take a doctor's certification if you need to take habit-forming or narcotic drugs.

ed a recommendation to place all janitors and maintenance personnel on an hourly wage basis.

Randolph said the change would not affect salaries, benefits or paid vacation days and holidays, but the board requested a breakdown of individual employees' wages, job descriptions and other pertinent data.

In other business the trustees:
—Voted to ask the athletic director at Hancock North Central to contact athletic directors at Picaune and Harrison Central High School to try to schedule junior high and senior high school basketball games with those schools next year;

—Approved two Section 16 residential leases, one to Terry and Cheryl McQueen and one to Wayne and Theresa Wadel Jr., each for 2.5 acres in the amount of $185.50 per year for 25 years; and —Approved the following payments to the Forestry Commission for work on Section 16 lands: $1,039 for inspecting and marking timber for sale; $293 for construction of 3 1/2 miles of fire lanes; and $424 for control burn of 244 acres.

WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP QUEST—Quarter horse enthusiast Debbie Bennett will be competing at the 13th annual American Junior Quarter Horse Association World Championship Show and Convention in Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 4-11. She will be among 1,300 young people, 18 and under, selected to participate in the show. She will compete with her registered American quarter horse, Mae Mae Girl 59 a 1975 bay mare in stake race, pole bending and barrel race at the show. The top ten youth in the nation in each of the 28 events as well as two entries per event from each of the state junior associations will compete for awards valued at almost $40,000. Winners of the 28 classes will receive a trophy belt buckle bearing the inscription "World Champion." Bennett, 16, is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bubba Bennett of Pearlinton and is a senior at Hancock North Central.

Local bass fishermen among tourney entrants

Larry Hopkins of Bay St. Louis and Ron Kozak of Waveland are among nearly 110 fishermen who have registered to compete June 17 on Pickwick Lake in the third Mississippi Division event on the Red Man Tournament Trail.

The field may expand as all properly postmarked entries are received. Among the competitors will be 18 of the top 24 anglers in the Mississippi Division point standings. Leading the way are the top five: Bob Hamilton of Brandon, Dudley Saleres of Ridgeland, Charles Jones of Jackson, Tenn., Ray Hall of Cardwell, Mo., and Jon Butler of Jackson, Tenn.

Also among the Pickwick fishermen will be Billy Phillips of Jackson, Tenn. He's in second place in Kentucky and Tennessee's Land Between the Lakes Division.

Anglers from Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Louisiana, Missouri and Tennessee will join Mississippi fishermen on Pickwick Lake.

They will be competing for about $4,125 in total prize money based on an estimated 110 entrants with the winner earning about $1,375.

Cash awards go to the top 10 percent in the field.

Competition will begin at dawn on Sunday out of Pickwick Landing State Park. Each fisherman is paired by computer with a partner to assure the integrity of the tournament. Weigh-in time will be around 3 p.m.

Anglers in Red Man Tournament Trail events are encouraged to release their fish live to the water after weigh-in. Each live fish is worth two bonus ounces.

The Mississippi Division is one of 15 geographical areas that make up the Red Man Tournament Trail. Each division has six tournaments, bringing the national total to 90 events.

The fourth Mississippi Division tournament is scheduled for July 8 on Lake Ferguson near Greenville.

Entry deadline is June 27. For entry information, call or write Operation Bass, Rt. 2, Box 74B, Gilbertsville, Ky. 42044. Telephone (502) 362-4880.

Entry fees for the one-day event are $50 each, and a fisherman must join Operation Bass.

One hundred percent of the entry money is paid back as cash awards along the trail.

Fort Pickens park seeks senior hosts

Gulf Islands National Seashore is seeking retired couples to serve as campground hosts in the Fort Pickens area campground of the seashore near Pensacola, Fla.

Hosts' duties will include orienting campers, providing information services about park activities, and assisting in litter pick up and phone reception functions.

The seashore will provide one trailer/RV site in the campground with electric and water hook-ups at no cost as recognition for this Volunteer-In-Parks position.

Hosts will be expected to provide their own trailer or other RV.

Because of the time involved in orienting and training new hosts, a three or four-month assignment is desirable. Hosts are expected to work five hours a day, five days per week. Applicants must like people, be in good health, and have a sincere interest in being active.

Further information can be obtained from Michael Smiley, VIP Coordinator, Gulf Islands National Seashore, P.O. Box 100, Gulf Breeze, Fla. 32561-0100, or by calling 904-932-6535.

ETV Brief

APPALACHIAN SPRING—Its programs contain an array of world premieres and palachian Spring is the unusual repertory as well as featured selection of an acknowledged masterpiece Copland program on 20th century music. The concert will be simulcast on ETV and on June 25 on Mississippi ETV. The Consort will perform in the Coudage Auditorium of the Library of Congress, the same stage where "Appalachian Spring" premiered in 1944. The 13-instrument chamber version of "Appalachian Spring" duplicates the music of the premiere 40 years ago, said producer Jackson Frost. "We were delighted with this unusual opportunity to record a modern classic in its original setting," he said.

One of the nation's foremost contemporary music ensembles, the 20th Century Consort has been making a distinctive name for itself in the world of chamber music since its formation in 1972.

HEADACHES DISAPPEAR

DR. Wm. L. POWELL

This fine man came to our clinic complaining of persistent headaches which had stayed with him for nine weeks. He goes to bed with it and wakes up in the morning with it. Pills seem to dull it somewhat, but he can feel that it is still there. Others who examined him could find no reason for the condition. We made a complete spinal analysis including x-rays, and the clinical evidence obtained showed the cause to be a slipped spinal bone at the base of his head. With gentle, relaxing corrective spinal adjustments, the headaches he used to have are now an experience of the past. He is so grateful, he recommends us highly to all of his friends. We appreciate this and are happy that we could help him.

SANDY THE SEAGULL—Development of the Mississippi Gulf Coast's official mascot, a seven-foot-tall caricature of a seagull sporting real feathers and an electrified sun visor, was sponsored by the Gulf Coast Tourism Commission. Sandy's costume was designed and constructed by Sidney and Delery Smith of Merry Minstrel Singing Telegrams in Kiln.

County residents costume Coast's new official mascot

'Sandy the Seagull' was unveiled recently as the official mascot of the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

The new ambassador is a seven-foot-tall caricature of a seagull that sports real feathers and an electrified sun visor that proclaims the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

The mascot draws its heritage from the popularity of such creatures as the San Diego Chicken and Seymour de Fair, the mascot of the World's Fair in nearby New Orleans.

"We are not seeking total originality but an entertaining way to establish the identity of the Mississippi Coast as a full-dimension vacation haven," explained Wren Frith who originated the idea of developing a mascot.

Sandy the Seagull's development was sponsored by the Gulf Coast Tourism Commission, but the mascot will be available to bring gaiety to private and public events alike.

Sandy is sure to be part of traditional celebrations throughout the region such as Mardi Gras, St. Patrick's Day and fleet blessings.

"The mascot is not connected with the World's Fair," continued Frith, "except by coincidence of time."

"We look to Sandy as an entertainment to visitors, and natives too, for years to come."

The feathered mascot's surprise inaugural appearance came at the monthly meeting of the Gulf Coast Hotel and Motel Owner's Association held at the La Font Inn in Pascagoula.

Doug Fontaine, owner of the La Font Inn and host for the meeting, described the impact of Sandy as 'fantastic.' He envisions using the mascot for 'conventions, meetings, visits by dignitaries and other special events.'

Wren Frith of Holiday Inns introduced the concept that a suitable mascot was needed. At the time Frith was a member of the Gulf Coast Tourism Commission.

According to Frith, "Shirley Guice of Guice and Guice Advertising grabbed the idea and brought it to reality faster than we could imagine."

Guice explained that several approaches were considered in the process of developing 'Sandy the Seagull.'

"We like our results," she added,

"because the symbols of the 'sand' and the 'sea' relate perfectly to the essence of the Coast as a vacation spot."

The costume was designed and constructed by Sidney and Delery Smith of Merry Minstrel Singing Telegrams of Kiln and is their copyrighted property.

Arrangements for appearances by Sandy can be made through Merry Minstrel at 255-4000.

ETV Brief

GARLIC FARMING

Mississippi's largest garlic farm and the man who manages it are featured on "Farmweek" at 7:30 p.m. Monday, June 25, on Mississippi ETV.

Ed Nichols explains how his garlic operation has tripled each year since its beginning and reveals his secrets for managing his diverse farm operation, which includes raising herbs, cattle, muscadines and bees as well as garlic.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS

Reappraisal notices for residential property have been mailed to property owners by the Hancock County Appraiser/Tax Assessor's office.

If you have not received a reappraisal notice or if you have any questions about the notice (i.e., property description or evaluation), please contact the Reappraisal Office at 467-0137.

Reappraisal staff will be happy to answer your questions or to make an appointment for an individual clarification.

Hancock prehistoric site among department holdings

The Board of Trustees of the Mississippi Department of Archives and History recently voted unanimously to accept the donation of Providence Mound from the Delta Foundation of Holmes County, according to Elbert R. Hilliard, department director.

The board commended the foundation and its director, A.E. Cox, for its decision to place the mound under jurisdiction of the Mississippi state agency, which will protect and preserve the mound along with other archaeological sites under its ownership.

Providence Mound, located in Holmes County, is a large Woodland Period (100 A.D.-1000 A.D.) burial mound and is almost twice as large as most burial mounds—135 feet in diameter and 25 feet high.

The mound is in excellent condition, according to department archaeologists, and has little indication of disturbance.

As a department site, the mound will be kept intact for possible future investigation and recording of data pertaining to the religion, ceremonial life, and physical anthropology of the group responsible for the mound.

Contents of the mound are already protected by the Burial Law, the same legislation that protects Christian burials.

However, state ownership will afford additional protection against inadvertent destruction or future development that would threaten the mound's existence.

ETV Brief

GEORGE BERKELEY

"The Dean of Thin Air," a drama about the life of Irish philosopher George Berkeley (pronounced BAR-kley in his native Ireland), can be seen at 9 p.m. Tuesday, June 26, on Mississippi ETV.

"Berkeley was considered a fool or a madman by some," said writer Frank Muhly Jr., "but he had a poet's eye and a visionary fire. He saw something spiritual behind the physical fabric of the world, and perhaps the cynical 18th century wasn't ready for that."

"But later people, like William Blake and the Cubist painters and Einstein and today's quantum physicists would find in Berkeley a forerunner of their own discoveries and a congenial radical spirit."

Berkeley was still a student at Trinity College in Dublin when he developed the radical theory that brought him to the notice of a grand world outside Ireland. "To be able to be perceived is to exist," he said, "and that the physical world exists only in man's perception."

State 4-H Congress underway this week

Mississippi 4-H members and their adult volunteer leaders this week are at Mississippi State University for the annual State 4-H Congress.

"This event offers delegates a chance to share ideas, participate in contests and experience many learning opportunities," said Caroline Anderson, 4-H youth development specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"These young people, representing the state's 178,000 4-H members, are among the most outstanding youth in the state," she said.

"While at Congress they are demonstrating the results of their practical learning experiences through participation in more than 50 different contests."

The theme for 4-H in Mississippi this year is "4-H Building on Experience."

After participating in the State 4-H Congress, delegates will be better qualified to become involved in action projects of concern in their communities, Anderson said.

Nomination and election of State 4-H Council officers will be made during Congress. Council officers will represent the state's 4-H members at various 4-H events and will help the State 4-H Youth Development Department in designing programs to meet the educational needs of all youth.

Selection of the State 4-H Awareness Team also will be held during Congress.

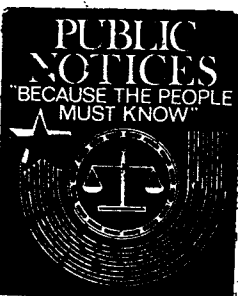

Team members promote 4-H statewide by talking about 4-H experiences to different audiences.

In addition, six national 4-H conference delegates will be selected to represent Mississippi at the national event in April. When not in contests, 4-H members will participate in educational workshops in their subject matter areas. Volunteer leaders will participate in similar activities during the State 4-H Adult Volunteer Leaders Conference.

"Night activities planned for Congress will be packed with fun," Anderson said. "In store for participants will be a dance and numerous fellowship activities, along with time to relax."

Other highlights of Congress will be a State 4-H Fashion Show and a 4-H Olympics competition.

The 4-H program, the youth educational phase of the Extension Service, uses a variety of methods to involve youth in worthwhile projects.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
Sealed bids will be received by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, Bay St. Louis, Miss., until 10:00 a.m. Thursday, July 12, 1984, for providing the following for use of the Hancock County Reappraisal program:
Moore Business Forms 3610 Heavy Duty Imprinter Detacher, Model 302 with high-capacity stacker and mid-form slitters, or equivalent.
Model 1600 Multiweb Decollator, said equipment to be paid for from and used as part of the Hancock County Reappraisal program.
The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.
Published by order of the Board of Supervisors dated June 14, 1984.

Summer workshops listed

TEACHER MERIT PAY. The Division of Continuing Education at the University of Southern Mississippi will offer a two-day activity on "Merit Pay: Issues and Strategies" June 21-22, in the University Union in Hattiesburg.

This activity will feature nationally known speakers and discussions will include the legal implications of merit pay, merit pay and teacher evaluation and the implementation of merit pay.

The event is sponsored by Phi Delta Kappa International and the USM PDK Chapter.

For additional information about this PDK Leadership Institute write, Division of Continuing Education, Southern Station Box 5136, Hattiesburg, MS 39406-5136.

PHONICS

Phonics for Elementary Teachers will be offered by the University of Southern Mississippi Division of Continuing Education beginning June 20.

The workshop for elementary teachers will include teaching phonics and structural analysis.

Among the topics to be covered are meeting the needs of regular and remedial elementary and special education classroom teachers, according to Dr. Janie Allen, director of the Department of Curriculum and Instruction.

Registration is scheduled from 8 to 9 a.m. in Bennette Auditorium. Workshop sessions will meet from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

This three-semester-hour class is scheduled June 20 to July 10 with formal classroom sessions June 20, 21, 27, 28, July 5 and 6.

For additional information contact the Division of Continuing Education at 266-4183.

A Number One value from America's favorite air conditioning brand!

Announcing United Gas Pipe Line Company's gas range giveaway. That's right. You could win a brand new, high-quality Whirlpool natural gas range. This range features solid-state ignition, two continuous-cleaning gas ovens, illuminated cooktop, black glass doors, minute timer and much more. Best of all, this range features clean, even cooking with high-efficiency natural gas, the fuel chosen by most professional chefs.

United Gas Pipe Line Company is sponsoring this drawing in cooperation with your gas distributor. For more than 50 years, we have served the Gulf South region with this premium fuel, and now, as gas appliances enter a new world of efficiency, we want you to know about it.

Today's gas appliances are bringing new efficiency to the home. Natural gas is a good buy today, and these new high-efficiency appliances will make it an even better buy tomorrow.

Go to your participating natural gas distributor and register today for the drawing.

GENERAL RULES OF THE DRAWING

Neither presentation of this announcement nor a purchase or fee is required to register or win. All registrants must be at least 18 years old, and registration is limited to one per visit. The deadline for registration is July 20, 1984. Winners will be notified by mail within 6 weeks of the registration deadline. Employees and relatives of employees of United Gas and the participating gas distribution companies or municipalities are ineligible to participate. The individual prizes will consist of Whirlpool natural gas ranges. The drawing and the awarding of prizes is subject to the Official Contest Rules posted at each registration location.

WHERE TO REGISTER

You may register for the drawing at the main office of these participating gas distributors in this area:

Bay St. Louis City Hall, 300 N. Second Street • Escatawpa, Escatawpa Gas, 7818 Hwy. 613 (Oak Cr.) • Gulfport, Entex, 2018 Pass Road • Lucedale, Union Gas Co., 123 Main Street • Moss Point City Office, 4412 Denny Street • Pascagoula City Warehouse, 603 Watts Ave. • Piquette City Office, 203 Goddard Blvd. • Waveland City Office, 301 Coleman Ave.

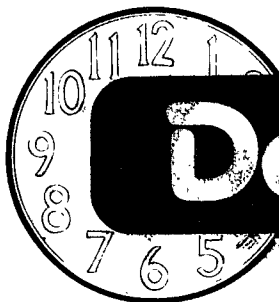

This drawing is sponsored by United Gas Pipe Line Company to introduce consumers to the latest in high-efficiency gas appliances. United Gas and your local gas distributor are both part of a team bringing you the nation's cleanest and most efficient fuel.
